The wolf of starvation howls at the doors of thousands of men who are well rounded by plenty. Ill-health, in the majority of cases, is starvation, pure and simple. It means that body, brain, nerve, bone and sinew are improperly or insufficiently nourished. Improper, insufficient nourishment is starvation.

When a man's head aches it is because the tissues of the brain do not receive sufficient nourishment from the blood, or receive impure and unhealthy nourishment. When a man gets nervous and sleepless, it means that the blood is not properly nourishing the nerves. When his skin breaks out with blotches and pimples and eruptions, it means that the skin is being fed upon the impurities of the blood. Almost every known disease is primarily due to improper nourishment through the blood, which is the life-stream. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the greatest of all blood-makers and purifiers. It gives edge to the appetite, corrects all disorders of the digestion, makes the assimilation of the life-giving elements of the food perfect, invigorates the liver, promotes secretion and excretion, and vitalizes the whole body. It makes firm muscular flesh, but does not make corpulent people more corpulent. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and kindred affections, which, if neglected, lead up to consumption. It is the best of all nerve tonics and restoratives. Kept by all medicine dealers.

I was taken ill in February, 1892, with head ache and pain in my back," writes Dr. George, Esq., of 313 South J Street, Tacoma, Wash. "I called in a doctor and he came three times. He said I was bilious but I kept getting worse. I thought I was going to die. I could not sleep, only being propped up in bed. My lungs hurt me, and I got so poor that I was just skin and bone. I thought I was going to die. I used two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and it made me sound and well. It saved my life."

No remedy will constipation so quickly and effectively as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They never gripe.

A WOMAN.

God did not make her very wise,
But carved a strangeness round her mouth;
He put her great sorrow in her eyes
And softness for men's souls in drouth,
And on her face, for all to see,
The seal of awful tragedy.

God did not make her very fair,
But white and lithe and strange and sweet;
A subtle fragrance in her hair,
A slender swiftness in her feet,
And in her hands a slow caress,
God made these for my steadfastness.

God did not give her a heart,
But there is that within her face
To make men long to make apart
Until they goodness find and grace,
And think to read and worship there
All good, yet she is scarcely fair.

"THE LOST CHORD."

How Sir Arthur Sullivan Came to Write That Famous Melody.

Colonel Robert E. Lee Ventling, a great traveler and musician, tells the following interesting story:

"It was while visiting the house of a nobleman in England that I first heard the story of the birth of 'The Lost Chord,' a song that has been sung in every quarter of the globe and which will live forever. If ever there was such a thing as inspiration, that song was inspired.

"There are very few Englishmen who do not remember Fred Sullivan, the great comic star and brother of Sir Arthur Sullivan. He played in all the original Gilbert and Sullivan operas and has never been equaled. He was later followed by George Grossmith.

"One day Sir Arthur Sullivan was notified that his brother Fred was very ill. He made every effort to reach the house where his brother was lying at the point of death, but arrived too late to see him alive. The two brothers were devoted to each other, and the blow was a bitter one for Sir Arthur. He was closeted with the body of his brother for two hours, at the expiration of which time he came down stairs and went to the piano. Throwing the instrument open, he began to play, and, bar by bar, 'The Lost Chord' was evolved. The composer sadly put his new composition on paper and stored it away.

"The song is the wail of a throbbing heart, the grief of desolation. All through its beautiful harmony can be heard the strain of grief. So profound an impression did the association of the song with the death of his brother make on Sir Arthur that he is said to have, even at this late date, an aversion to hearing it performed."—Baltimore News.

Gave Her a Begging Bowl.

Mme. Antoinette Sterling, the contralto singer and evangelist, had an experience in the Bombay presidency, India, which is as quaint as any of Kipling's tales of the hills. She was campaigning with Pandita Ramabai, and through her magnificent voice was drawing thousands of natives to her meetings. They had never seen that kind of a missionary before and had never heard a voice like hers. They were so pleased with her work that they said to themselves:

"This is a foreign woman guru, and for fear of giving offense to us she has quitted to put her begging bowl outside of her door for us to put in the customary contributions."

In India every guru, or holy person, carries a brass, wood or clay begging bowl, into which the devout put some small sum of money. Mme. Sterling walked out upon the veranda of her bungalow one morning, and there, to her amazement, found two begging bowls—one, a little one, with a few annas in it, intended for the pandita and one, an enormous affair, containing a handsome sum of annas and rupees for herself.

The only explanation she could ever extract from the servant was this: "Little bowl, little money for the little pandita with little voice; big bowl, big money for big missahib with big voice."—Saturday Evening Post.

CRAZY JOURNALISM.

NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED BY LUNATICS FOR LUNATICS.

The Publications That Are Issued in Madhouses and Asylums Are Almost Entirely Free From Gloom and Melancholia.

Dotted here and there over the earth are little colonies whose inhabitants are cut off from all intercourse with the everyday world by their own idiosyncrasies. Each individual lives in a world of his or her own creation, which, in the majority of cases, only two outside interests ever succeed in reaching—namely, the asylum doctor and the asylum magazine.

In some cases the proof sheets are just glanced at by the head doctor before the magazine goes to press, but they are written, printed and published by the inmates themselves.

Although America produced the first two lunatic journals, to Scotland belongs the credit of having started the first paper of this kind which has survived its infancy. In fact, the birth of lunatic journalism took place when the first number of The New Moon was issued from the Crichton Royal asylum, Dumfries, on Dec. 3, 1844. Since that date the following have been successfully launched: The Morningside Mirror, from the Royal Edinburgh asylum; The Excelsior, from James Murray's Royal asylum, Perth; The North England Mirror, Grahamestown, Scotland; The Mirthly Magazine, from the Perth County asylum; Under the Dome, the organ of Bethlehem Royal hospital, London, and The Conglomerate, which belongs to the Middletown asylum, New York.

These magazines touch the journalistic ideal, as, being written by the readers for their amusement, they cannot fail to hit the popular taste. We find that those mentally deranged like about four-ninths of their reading to take the form of travel and heavy prose articles of a strictly theoretical nature. The rest of the contents comes in order of quantity as follows: Humor, local notes, poetry, chiefly in a light vein; special articles on local theatricals and fiction.

The most striking feature about these journals is the almost total absence of gloom and melancholia, and we have it on the word of the doctor of one of the leading asylums that this is not owing to such contributions being tabooed. But now and again one comes on a poem or tale drenched with melancholia and morbid insanity. In one of these journals appeared a story written in the first person about a hero—undoubtedly the writer—who had his head twisted round the wrong way. The consequence was he invariably had to walk in the opposite direction to which he wanted to walk. This terrible fate haunts him right through the story, causing him to lose friends, money and everything else which man holds dear and ends up by his, in his own mind, murdering the girl who was to save him from himself.

According to the story, the heroine was standing on the edge of a great precipice. The hero is standing near. Suddenly the heroine becomes giddy and totters on the brink. The hero tries to dash forward and save her, but of course runs the other way. Here comes a break in the narrative, which is finished by the following sentence: "And the gates of an asylum for those mentally deranged shut the writer off from his friends in the outer world."

Apart from such tragedies as the above, the whole of these journals are saturated with humor. In one we find the following among "Questions We Want Answered."

"When does the queen of Sheba intend to recognize the royal rank of the 'Prince of Wales?' Did 'Marie Corelli' really tweak the doctor's nose? Why did 'Ranji' throw the ball at 'W. G.'s' head during practice at the nets? Perhaps it should be explained that the celebrities referred to above are not those known to the public, but other persons who claim their personalities and are detained in the asylums for that very reason.

A writer in The Fort England Mirror gives the following reason for his detention: "I met a young widow with a grown stepdaughter, and the widow married me. Then my father, who was a widower, met my stepdaughter and married her. That made my wife the mother-in-law of her father-in-law and made my stepdaughter my mother and my father my stepson. Then my stepmother, the stepdaughter of my wife, had a son. That boy was, of course, my brother, because he was my father's son. He was also the son of my wife's stepdaughter and therefore her grandson. That made me grandfather to my stepbrother. Then my wife had a son. My mother-in-law, the step-sister of my son, is also his grandmother, because he is her stepson's child. My father is the brother-in-law of my child, because his step-sister is his wife. I am the brother of my own son, who is also the child of my step-grandmother. I am my mother's brother-in-law, my wife is her own child's aunt, my son is my father's nephew, and I'm my own grandfather. And after trying to explain the relationship in our family some seven times a day to our calling friends for a fortnight, I was brought here—no, came of my own will."

Another declares that he never found rest from his mother-in-law before, and he intends to bloodwink the doctors as long as possible. And yet another points out that it has always been the fate of really great men to be ignored or ill-treated by their contemporaries, and that is why he is now detained. "For the why's skulls and those of little sense are jealous of my being the first to discover that we could all live forever if we would only walk on our heads instead of our feet."—London Mail.

The Journal?

It is well understood by the people in some localities that Charlie Wallace and certain of his lieutenants have been over the western part of the State to ascertain how the political pulse of the west was beating for the next campaign. The boss was diligent in the work he had on hand, which is to divide the silver vote in the State, and by that means cause the State to return its electoral vote for McKinley, and if the State cannot be carried for McKinley that the silver men shall be defeated in the State.

The J. P. Jones element will aid the boss to carry his plans forward to bring results as he would like them in November next. The Jones contingent, who claim to be Democrats but who continue to hang on to Wallace coat tails and the bones of the Silver party, which the boss sent to its death at Reno in 1893, will do whatever is required of them to bring disaster to the silver cause. These men, like their present owner, have no politics or political connections as they are creatures of circumstances and do the bidding of their master. The power that influences these men is not included in political principle, but is included in the will of their owner, and the will of their master is ever directed against those who are the friends of the State and have the required individuality to give them standing as men.

Whenever a citizen of the State of native independence and power is before the people asking political preferment the gang are the enemies of such men, because their services are required by the boss in opposition to men who will of a necessity be in opposition to the all-controlling power of Charlie Wallace. The opposition of able men to the methods of Wallace, who are honest, will be so pronounced that Wallace and the gang he directs would go out of business in politics in the State, which would be a god-send to the honest and industrious among the people. It would mean better government by the enforcement of law which requires taxation of all property in the State at its cash value, which would more than double the assessment rolls of the State by making the rich pay taxes on their property as the poor man pays on the little property he possesses.

The property of the railroad would pay taxes upon a true valuation, which above all things should be avoided as Wallace is persuaded, as it includes, as it is now taxed, a saving to the railroad company of about nine times the sum it now pays upon its property in the State. The property of the railroad is now assessed at about one-tenth of its value as represented by its valuation as a security for the payment of its bonds. The maintenance of present political conditions upon the State means a perpetuation of boss rule and the continued enslavement of the people through rotten borough methods.

The State has suffered from political management by the gang for all the years it has been a State and the people have paid the expenses. The object of Wallace and his creatures has been and continues to be to keep the State where it has been under the rule of the gang. While the State has been held under boss rule and its prosperity and development chained through the slavery of its people to the railroad and corporate power, the gang have received the emoluments of office to secure their co-operation in the work to enslave.

To hold the State and its offices and the people in continued slavery to boss rule and the rule of the gang and the rule of the railroad, was the purpose of Wallace and his gang when they were taking a view of the political situation in the west.

Can it be that there is an intelligent man in the State who is not aware that the good of the State and its best interests are not considered by Wallace in his political work to retain power that will be used as it ever has been used, to cloud and ruin the best hopes of our people for a future that will give emancipation from boss rule and its consequent slavery.

Our future is bright, as a result of industries over which boss rule has no power, which are our mining industries, but in all other enterprises, when men who come to the State to invest money learn about the rule of taxation in the State, they take up their grips and go to invest elsewhere.

It is a truth that our State, by railroad management, has been advertised in the State of California for a bridge for the Central Pacific, while Wallace and his gang held it in bondage and the railroad robbed the people in the State by excessive charges on fares and freights, and by paying more than their share of the expenses of the State government. Wallace's activity in politics in connection with the gang means a continuation of these enslaving evils.

Saved by a Miracle.

Fred Vorm, one of the proprietors of the Monarch saloon, had thirty pounds of fat scared off him last evening. He thought the Fenians had mistaken him for a Kanuck and had plotted against his life.

One of the lunch stand proprietors discovered an infernal machine all ready to hurl the establishment in the direction of the Plaidies.

Constable McNeilly was called in to remove the outfit, which the rest of the crowd fought shy of.

Investigation proved it to be several dry cells for generating little incandescent lights. A Chinese punk took the place of fuse. Fred treated all round, and "the incident was closed."

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo. lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Wine by the Carload.

F. Marra, the enterprising proprietor of the Swiss-American Hotel, received a carload of wine last week. The shipment consisted of claret, angelica and white wines, and is of a high quality. Mr. Marra will dispose of the shipment at retail; the price asked is 50 cents per gallon.

The advertisement of Mr. Marra's will appear in to-morrow's issue.

Another Failure.

It is evidently "bad weather" for running a smelter.

THE BUILDING OF THE BRIDGE

There Will Be a Substantial Structure Thrown Across the Truckee.

A JOURNAL reporter went up the Truckee yesterday morning to look at and admire the beautiful stream and its pure waters, as they descend from the snow-capped Sierras, and while viewing the winter scenery of the river he caught a view of a stone structure in the center of the river, which was new to eyes that had taken to his mind for many years the beauties of the Truckee.

Curiosity directed a course to an abutment opposite the pier in the stream, where Messrs. Caine & Schadler, who are contractors, made the reporter happy by enlightening his mind that the structures were the abutments and pier of the new bridge over the Truckee above town. Becoming interested, and upon making a request details were given in a very kind way.

The northerly abutment is a fine bridge structure built of granite and cement. Many of the stones in the walls are six feet in length by twelve inches in depth. The length of the northerly abutment is sixty-four feet, including the wings, and the foundation is not less than two feet below low water mark.

The abutment on the southerly river bank is of the same strength as the one on the northerly side, but is without wings, because of the steepness of the bank.

The center pier is so well constructed that it will outlast the crash of ice and high water, as it is a solid rock made of granite and the finest cement.

There are not on the coast bridge foundations superior to these structures. The work is a credit to the contractors, and the county or others who have like work will do well to give these gentlemen employment. The lateness of the season when the work was commenced precluded a possibility to procure lumber for the bridge superstructure until spring.

Interesting Relic.

Mrs. Merrill of this city possesses an interesting historical relic in the shape of an Ulster county, New York, Gazette dated Saturday, January 4, 1800. It is therefore just one hundred years old.

The paper contains a lengthy account of the death of George Washington.

The Letter Was Burned.

A peculiar accident occurred last evening. As the west-bound train drew in a stranger tossed a letter into the mail car. The motion of the train and the draught carried it into the stove, where it quickly met its fate. The sender could not be found to notify him of the accident. Some one will wait for a letter that never comes.

Appalling Brutality.

Miss Slossor, Scotch missionary, who has been 24 years in Africa, has herself saved the lives of over 50 twins.

When twins are born, they are at once taken from the mother, and if no one intercedes they are at once taken by the feet and head and have their backs broken across a native woman's knee, in the same manner as one would break a stick. The bodies are then placed in an earthenware receptacle and taken to the bush, where they are devoured by the flies, insects or animals. Sometimes the little victims are put into these receptacles alive and are then eaten alive in the same way.

The mother becomes an outcast. If she does not at once take her own life, she has to flee to the bush. If she ventures near the town or village, she must see that she does not remain on the path when any other native is coming. Her presence, according to their superstition, would defile the place for others. She must not drink from the same spring, must not touch anything even belonging to her own relatives.—Missionary Review of the World.

California's Shark Oil Industry.

The making of shark oil is the important industry of McGavin's Cove, near Riverside. The process of manufacture is decidedly primitive. The sharks are caught in every imaginable way, by bait and hook, but principally with the seine. The livers, which contain the oil, after being taken from the fish, are rendered out in cans set over a brush fire, reminding one somewhat of the process of obtaining the oil from whale blubber. The oil is then put into casks and shipped to Los Angeles. The coarser grades are used in the making of tarpanalins and other oiled cloths for use aboard ships, while the finer grades are put into the so called cod liver oil of commerce. The sharks average from 10 to 25 cents' worth of oil apiece, and a day's catch usually nets about $40.—Riverside Press.

A Quaint English Ceremony.

On the last day of each October the city solicitor of London, with an assistant, attends upon the royal remembrancer, when, by proclamation, "the tenants and occupiers of a piece of waste ground called the moors, in the county of Salop," are commanded to "come forth and do your service upon pain and peril that shall fall thereon." The solicitor chops in halves two fagots, one with a hatchet and the other with a billhook. Afterward comes the summons to the tenants, etc., of "a certain tenement with a forge" in the Strand and the payment of six horse-shoes, with 61 shoe nails, by the solicitor. This forge has long ceased to be, and the same shoes and nails are used year after year, the shoes being at least two centuries old.

Memory.

If it should be asked what possession I most valued, I would say some beautiful memory. Memory is possession. It is the only thing on earth that is absolutely ours, which no one can take from us. We can produce and enjoy it in a crowd of uncongenial people as easily as if we were alone. No noise can drown its voice; no distance can dim its clearness. Strength, hope, beauty, everything else, may pass. Memory will stay.

The Future Unfolded.

She—Suppose I didn't dress as well as I do now, would you love me as much?

He—Certainly, dear. Why, that is as much as to say that I won't care for you after we are married.—Detroit Free Press.

To avoid a task and to fear it is to make it our master. To set about it cheerfully at once is to become its master.

Took It to Himself.

Stubb—I made an awful blunder last night.

Penn—What was it?

Stubb—Why, Tommy called me about midnight and asked what the noise was down stairs. I told him it was the old cat.

Penn—Was it?

Stubb—No; it was my wife looking for water. It took me until morning trying to convince her that I was alluding to the old cat with black fur and nine lives.—Chicago News.
